Jacob Cramer of Lititz graduated from Manheim Township High School and will enter Penn State University to study engineering. Kathryne Dingle is studying Animal Science at the University of Findlay in Ohio. Alanna "Ally" Falk will be a junior at Temple University this fall studying political science. Nicole Leniger of Quakertown will be entering her sophomore year at Bloomsburg University studying medical imagery. Elijah Madara of Catawissa graduated from Southern Columbia High School and will enter Pennsylvania College of Technology in the fall studying auto mechanics. Emma Madara of Catawissa graduated from Southern Columbia High School and will be studying Animal Science at Penn State University in the fall.

"We have received applications from students pursuing a wide variety of degrees from healthcare to accounting to auto mechanics and animal science. We awarded scholarships to nine students this year including two repeat recipients," noted Lynda Limpert, Chair of the Board of Directors of the Wenger's Feed Mill Scholarship Foundation. The Foundation awarded $10,000 in scholarships this year.

Individual awards are determined by the Board of Directors of the Wenger's Feed Mill Scholarship Foundation. Awards are available for use at accredited colleges or universities, community colleges, as well as trade and technical schools.

Launched in 2015, The Foundation awards academic scholarships exclusively to eligible full-time team members of The Wenger Group companies. "Our team members are our greatest asset, and we appreciate their dedication to The Wenger Group and are delighted to aid their children in attaining their future goals," noted Barry Shaw, Executive Chairman of the Board of The Wenger Group.
